PIGMENT BUSTER TREATMENTS AT SKINFRESH CLINIC

Skinfresh Clinic has a range of facial, chest and neck treatments that can reduce or even eradicate red and brown pigmentation.

As the national trainers for Cutera medical lasers and Allmedic photodynamic therapy, you can be assured that Skinfresh's nurses are experts in these treatments.

Many people have a condition called poikiloderma that is a combination of brown and red pigmentation on the neck and chest as a result of accumulated sun exposure and damage.

Surface layer treatment

When treating poikiloderma, it is important to tackle the different pigments in the correct order to get the best results. Skinfresh Clinic has a range of technologies that allows us to target several layers of the skin, thus obtaining a more effective clearing of these pigments.

Skinfresh Clinic's intense pulsed light (IPL) treatment called Limelight can clear up the brown and red discolouration in the uppermost layer of the skin. Importantly, Skinfresh Clinic does a no-charge set of IPL test shots before the treatment to assess which settings will give the best and safest results. This means that we can get all the pigment reduced in fewer treatments.

Note that there are different qualities of IPL machines and operators. Skinfresh are the trainers in the field of medical IPL, light and laser treatments, so you can be confident that at Skinfresh Clinic these treatments are performed by people who know what they're doing.

Deeper layer treatment

The deeper layer treatment is called Laser Genesis. It can treat the deep redness that IPL just doesn't reach. The bonus with this treatment is that it is painless, can be used on dark and suntanned skin, and there is no downtime! It can also treat the larger red veins that IPL doesn't affect.

If your skin discolouration is associated with a history of skin cancers, obvious sun damage, solar keratoses and scaliness, then Skinfresh's photodynamic therapy procedure may reduce the scale and risk of skin cancers along with a reduction of pigmentation.

All of these treatments also rejuvenate the skin by increasing collagen.

Comfort and great results

So Skinfresh Clinic has all the angles covered when it comes to pigmentation. At Skinfresh Clinic, you will discover a new world of comfortable aesthetic treatments with great results.
